

VACANCY: SENIOR AGRICULTURAL / CIVIL CONSULTING ENGINEER

MBB Consulting Engineers has a vacancy for a senior Agricultural Engineering specialist in Nelspruit.

MBB, which commenced business in 1973, is an established Consulting Engineering company that specialises in the agricultural and water engineering industries. In addition, MBB also provides clients with Turn Key irrigation solutions (design, supply and installation), and has an Operation and Maintenance section. MBB is the largest Agricultural Engineering firm in South Africa, and is the industry leader in irrigation design, utilizing the latest technology available to optimize the life cycle cost of projects, while optimizing yield. MBB has an established and impressive client base within the public and private sectors.

The company is wholly owned by its employees, with 75% of the company ownership held by local employees, making MBB a rewarding company for whom to work.

The ideal candidate should be a specialist in bulk water, agricultural development and/or irrigation design, with the required skills and personality to identify and source new projects, and to interact with high profile clients in the agricultural sector on a personal and professional level. The candidate will be responsible to manage team members and execute projects from conceptualisation, through the design stage until hand-over on a very involved and hands on basis. In addition, he/she should have the necessary leadership and managerial qualities to provide technical, financial and personnel leadership as office manager of MBB Nelspruit. The successful candidate will have an outgoing personality, with the required self-confidence and personality to build existing and new client relationships.

Who should apply: Candidates with qualifications in Civil or Agricultural Engineering who are professionally registered, with at least 20 years' experience in the required fields of expertise. A practical, hands-on person with proven managerial and leadership skills is required to complement the existing MBB team.
